

Fractured

The fracking company assured us they had controls in place to avoid contaminating our well water. When our water smelled different, the company said it'd be temporary. When we saw oil floating on the water, they promised to look into it, but our lawyers aren't waiting for the study. We use bottled water for everything now but the nosebleeds haven't stopped.

Norbert Kovacs